The virtual assets will always belong to you

*Decentralization
the turning point of the era of virtual assets*

*We use blockchain-decentralization technology
Let all virtual world property always belong to the user individual
It will not be lost because the development company or game company stops serving
All of your virtual world assets will remain in the blockchain forever and will always be your own*

Decentralize

This is a technological revolution, not just for us

Break boundaries and share the ecological world

VirturGameCoin Decentralized Internet Eco-Community is an Internet industry community composed of Internet entertainment industry elites.

The VGC Community Experiment uses IPFS interstellar file storage technology to seamlessly connect users with application developers around the world by building decentralized Internet application platforms and VGCs, allowing developers to publish their work to users around the world through VGC Ecology. Users can use VGC to pay developers and trade with each other within the web app. All decisions are made by all community participants and aim to build a secure and highly decentralized Internet ecosystem that is all developers and users.

Only good ecological models can not be monopolized

In the network ecology, there should be only two roles, user and developer

Breaking the established pattern of the Internet allows the world to interact and integrate

Breaking the boundaries of international network applications

Break the network control boundary

Break the monopoly of giants

Break down software/platform/content boundaries

Decentralize

The VirtualGameCoin community hopes to seamlessly connect users to app developers around the world through decentralized Internet community platforms and token VGC, allowing developers to distribute their work to users around the world for free through community ecology, without worrying about being drawn from any platform and being monopolized/maliciously suppressed by large competitors. While enjoying online application facilities and services, players can pay developers and trade with each other through VGC. All decisions are made by all community participants and are designed to create an Internet community infrastructure that is all developers and users at the centre of security and high degree of decentralization. Starting with eco-applications within the VGC community, VirtualGameCoin will gradually become a common token for online transactions and payments in the Internet industry.
